

Cushingoid Face

Two photographs taken before (right) and after (left) the onset of Cushing's syndrome. Note the general facial plethora and rounding of the face and deposition of fat in the cheeks (moon face) that obscures the patient's ears. There is also fat deposition in the neck obscuring the clavicles.