

Gastric Bypass

A small 50 mL pouch is made in the upper stomach, which is closed from the lower stomach with two staple lines. A Roux-en-Y loop is made with the jejunal end anastomosed to the small pouch. The gastric contents and the duodenal contents meet up when the two segments anastomose.

Figure from Physicians Information and Education Resource (PIER), Obesity module.