

Oral Hairy Leukoplakia

Asymptomatic white plaque involving the lateral tongue in a patient with HIV infection characteristic of oral hairy leukoplakia. This finding is related to Epstein Barr virus infection.