

Livedo Reticularis

Livedo reticularis is characterized by an irregular reticular (netlike) erythema that can result from vasculitis, cholesterol embolization, and conditions associated with increased viscosity. The erythema blanches with pressure.