

Nabothian Cysts

Nabothian cysts are formed when glandular tissue is covered by squamous epithelium. Nabothian cysts are a common finding and can become quite large.

Reproduced with permission from: JHPIEGO. 1999. Atlas of Visual Inspection of the Cervix with Acetic Acid (VIA). JHPIEGO: Baltimore, MD. Copyright © by JHPIEGO, an affiliate of The Johns Hopkins University. All rights reserved. Slides contributed by Paul Blumenthal, EngenderHealth/Thomas Wright, and Francisco Garcia.