

Actinic Keratosis

Actinic keratoses usually present as small, multiple patches, 1-3 mm, with a rough sandpaper texture. Color ranges from skin-colored to pink to erythematous to brown. They are a risk factor for the development of squamous cell carcinoma.