

Crescent Sign

The ecchymosis over the medial aspect of the lower ankle is secondary to bleeding from a ruptured Baker's cyst. While not always present, a history of long standing knee arthritis, sudden onset of calf pain, and the development of the crescent sign points to a ruptured Baker's cyst.