

Drawer Test

The Drawer test evaluates damage to the anterior and posterior cruciate ligaments. The knee is flexed with the examiner sitting on the foot to stabilize the leg. The leg is grasped the lower leg at the upper tibia and alternately is pulled forward or pushed backward. An increase in motion suggests cruciate damage.