

New National Clearinghouse for Health Workforce Information Launched

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Health Resources and Services Administration has launched an online repository of information and resources about the healthcare workforce. The Health Workforce Information Center, operated by the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences, provides clinicians, educators, researchers, and policymakers with the latest information on: health workforce programs and funding sources; workforce data, research, and policy; educational opportunities and models; and news and events. The Web site is intended to quickly provide decision-makers with the tools necessary to make tough choices and allocate resources in the face of a national shortage of physicians and other health care workers. The Health Workforce Information Center includes AAMC data and resources on the physician workforce.

For information: Go to <http://www.healthworkforceinfo.org>

February 9, 2009