

Reforming Physician Payments to Achieve Greater Equity and Value in Health Care: A Position Paper of the American College of Physicians

An American College of Physicians position paper addresses how the current physician payment system does not adequately address socioeconomic factors that impact patients' health outcomes and makes a series of recommendations about how new payment models should be designed to better account for social drivers that impact patient health.

Annals of Internal Medicine* full text: <https://www.acpjournals.org/doi/10.7326/M21-4484>