

Compensation Disparities by Gender in Internal Medicine (2018)

An ACP position paper examining results of a cross-sectional survey investigating physician compensation by gender among ACP internists. Results of the survey found male-identifying internists were paid $50,000 more on average than female-identifying peers.

Annals of Internal Medicine* full text: <https://www.acpjournals.org/doi/10.7326/M18-0693>