WHY ATTEND?

We will explore the critical relationship between voting access and health outcomes and identify ways healthcare providers can get involved to close this gap. We will examine how barriers to voting can disproportionately affect marginalized communities, leading to disparities in health and well-being and are a social determinant of health. In partnership with Vot-ER's nonpartisan voter registration tools, we will discuss strategies to empower voters in order to help build healthier communities.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Understand the relationship between voting access and health outcomes.
- Identify how voting access serves as a social determinant of health and often travels with other barriers in marginalized communities.
- Discuss strategies including the use of Vot-ER badges to increase voting access and health equity.
