

XVI Bolivian Congress of Internal Medicine

September 4–5, 2025

Sucre, Bolivia

Global Ambassador reflections by: Ruben Antonio Gomez Mendoza, MD, FACP

As an ACP Global Ambassador, I attended the Congress of the Bolivian Society of Internal Medicine, organized by the Sucre Chapter of the Bolivian Society of Internal Medicine, in the capital city of Sucre, Bolivia.

The meeting was attended by 500 delegates from different regions of the country, including Santa Cruz, Cochabamba, and Oruro. They included general practitioners, physicians from different medical specialties, and resident physicians.

At the opening ceremony, I delivered a message on behalf of ACP, and in the presence of Dr. Irma Ceja, ACP Regent, I presented ACP's recognition trophy to the President of the Sucre Chapter, Dr. Leny Claudia Salguero Arceniega.

The event was a large academic gathering, with more than 50 national and international professors, where camaraderie reigned.

Bolivian physicians were happy and grateful for the presence of ACP at their event, with a commitment to continued collaboration.

Dr. Irma Ceja, Dr. Leny Claudia Salguero Arceniega, and Dr. Ruben Gomez

Dr. Ruben Gomez

Dr. Ruben Gomez with Dr. Leny Claudia Salguero Arceniega and other Bolivian leadership