Statement of Need

Dermatology is a dynamic specialty that continually changes in regard to evaluation, diagnostic tests and treatment including the use of medications which are frequently very expensive. Since internist and other subspecialists all deal with patients in this arena; it behooves these clinicians to be aware of current evidence-based changes in the field of Dermatology.

This conference will serve that need by presenting a collection of dermatological topics dealing with the best current, evidence-based information so that internists, dermatologists and other specialists can provide the most up-to-date care, best quality-of-care, most cost-effective care and enhance the clinician’s recognition of common skin presentations in practice of medicine. This conference will also enhance a better understanding of the historical influence of dermatology in the field of medicine.
