January 2017 Issue

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

In the January 2017 edition of HJM&PH, we feature a paper on fall prevention; a study on breastfeeding among women in Samoa; and a study examining life expectancy among Hawai'i's multi-ethnic population. In the Medical School Hotline, learn about the work being accomplished at the Pacific Center for Emerging Infectious Diseases Research. Finally, this month's Insights in Public Health column highlights the challenges of conducting health outcomes research for Chinese Americans using population-based survey data.

Mahalo to all who participated in the 2016 HJM&PH Writing Contest. Please stay tuned for the winners.
