

SAPNA KUEHL, MD, FACP

Dr. Sapna Kuehl is the Program Director for the Internal Medicine Residency program, at Saint Agnes Healthcare in Baltimore, Maryland. She is on faculty at the University of Maryland School of Medicine and an active member of the American College of Physicians' Maryland Chapter's Governor's Council since 2004. She has held multiple leadership positions at the state level and currently co-chairs the Mulholland-Mohler Resident research meeting, which hosts over 250 clinical vignette and research posters as well as oral presentations and the women in medicine committee for Maryland.

She is the current National Community Hospital Assembly co-chair for the Association of Program Directors in Internal Medicine. She is also on the Association of Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) Residency Review Committee RC-IM since 2020. She is on the board of the "Journal of Community Hospitals Internal Medicine Perspectives" and a reviewer for the journal.

Dr. Kuehl is board certified in Internal Medicine and received her undergraduate degree in Biophysics from Johns Hopkins University, and MD from the University of Maryland School of Medicine. She completed her Internal Medicine residency at the University of Maryland Medical System. She has worked as a hospitalist and been in private practice before moving into graduate medical education leadership.

She was awarded the C. Lockard Conley Award in 2013 by the ACP Maryland Chapter for her contributions to resident education and research and was inducted into the Healing Hands Society at St. Agnes in 2019. Dr. Kuehl's interests lie in promoting evidence-based medicine, communication, emotional intelligence, reducing healthcare costs and disparities. She is married, has two children and enjoys painting, gardening, reading, and outdoor activities.