SEPTEMBER 2021----WOMEN IN MEDICINE MONTH
CELEBRATE WITH OREGON CHAPTER ACP

Oregon ACP - Fourth Annual Women In Medicine Social Media Blitz – September 2021
Watch for postings to Chapter TWITTER & INSTAGRAM. Dr. Avi O'Glasser and our Women In Medicine Committee, Drs. Annie Weinsoft and Angel Platas have put together an amazing line up of snapshots of women who have served in Medicine in outstanding roles and activities.

The College provides numerous resources for Women In Medicine – please visit the website for more information https://www.acponline.org/advocacy/where-we-stand/women-in-medicine

Promoting gender equity and eliminating the inequities in compensation and career advancement that physicians can face is a longstanding goal of ACP. As an organization, we are committed to addressing the unique challenges female physicians confront over the course of their careers in order to foster an inclusive environment that promotes growth and development for female physicians. ACP believes that addressing the barriers that women in medicine face is essential for the internal medicine community to benefit from the full potential of women physicians in the workforce.

AVITAL Y. O'GLASSER, MD, FACP, FHM
DETAILS HER LOVE OF BEING A HOSPITALIST

From National ACP – Website Home Page “Member Profile” (Jul 2021)

Associate Professor of Medicine in the Department of Medicine and Department of Anesthesiology and Perioperative Medicine, Oregon Health & Science University
Preoperative Medicine Clinic Medical Director
Assistant Program Director for Social Media and Scholarship,
Oregon Health & Science University internal medicine residency program
ACP Council of Early Career Physicians
Medical School: Jefferson Medical College
Internal Medicine Residency: Oregon Health & Science University

Why did you choose to become a physician?  I actually didn’t see myself becoming a physician when I started college! I entered college pursuing a lifelong dream of becoming a paleontologist. However, between fantastic biology plus humanities professors in college, as well as work and volunteer experiences, I realized that my true passions lay in applying the sciences to directly caring for and helping people as a physician.

What field of internal medicine did you select and why?  I currently specialize in perioperative medicine as a hospitalist, so I say that I'm an outpatient hospitalist! A lot of serendipity and well-timed mentorship led to this career pathway. When I finished residency, I was applying for hepatology fellowship and about to take a gap year as an academic hospitalist. I didn't match for fellowship, but I discovered my passion for academic hospital medicine. I also worked part time in preop clinic that year to help fill in, and I was immediately hooked! For me, perioperative medicine has let me take care of very complex patients at pivotal crossroads in their lives along with a multidisciplinary team of surgeons and anesthesiologists. I love the types of connections and relationships this niche within internal medicine has let me develop over the years.

Please describe a typical day in your practice.  I see patients in preop clinic just over half my time. When I'm in clinic, I see a full day’s worth of preoperative consult visits. During the last year and a half, I have been either in clinic or campus or completing telehealth visits by telecommuting from home. As I'm our preop clinic's medical director, I also work closely and make myself available for questions from our team members (other physicians, NPs, RNs, MAs).
When I’m not seeing patients, I’m attending meetings or working on projects for our clinic (especially with all the new innovations and pathways we’ve had to develop during the COVID-19 pandemic) or the internal medicine residency program. I also make time for creative projects, such as research, writing, and creating lectures about perioperative medicine or other topics.

What are some of your special interests professionally? I am passionate about perioperative medicine, and I have spent a lot of time in the last year studying how to safely care for COVID-19 survivors who need surgery. Outside of this clinical interest area, I am very interested in analyzing and teaching effective use of social media (particularly Twitter) for health professionals. I am passionate about promoting clinician-led advocacy. I am also very interested in helping clinicians and trainees capture the value and impact of their “nontraditional” work such as digital scholarship and advocacy, through “traditional” communication means like CVs and applications.

What are your interests and hobbies outside of medicine? I love spending time with my family, including two young sons and our labradoodle Matilda. As a family, we’ve explored hiking, gardening, and cooking, especially during the pandemic. I am an amateur genealogy buff (the internist in me comes out when I’m in detective mode!), knitting, and reading.

What advice would you like to share with medical students, or what do you wish someone would have told you while you were in medical school? I wish I had been more aware of the challenges gender inequity and other forms of inequity and discrimination during my training—I want any trainee (or anyone in practice) to know that there are people out there advocating for change and mentors/sponsors out there who want to help them navigate these challenges so they can excel.

If you could change one thing about yourself, what would it be? I wish I was less afraid of failure. I feel like I’ve come a long way in this regard over the years, but I think there are times I might have taken more chances in life or done something more daring if fear of failure or fear of disappointing others wasn’t holding me back.

What is your most treasured possession? I still have the teddy bear I’ve had since I was 1-year old!

What historical figure do you most identify with? Not that I necessarily identify with her, but I’m fascinated by the life and work of Mary Anning. She was a fossil hunter in Britain in the early 1800s who made major discoveries but was excluded from the scientific community. She’s the basis for the rhyme “She sells seashells by the seashore.”

What is your motto? It’s okay to say, “I don’t know.” Being able to find and foster safe spaces and relationships to admit uncertainty in life and medicine is a crucial step towards cultivating growth mindset.

AMERICAN BOARD OF INTERNAL MEDICINE (ABIM)

The American College of Physicians (ACP) is pleased that the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM) will extend deadlines for all Maintenance of Certification (MOC) requirements through 2022. ACP has assured ABIM leadership understands the significant impact of the global COVID-19 pandemic on internists and has advocated for extending certificate deadlines to help alleviate exam-related stress. Extending certification will allow ABIM diplomates the options to join the new longitudinal assessment that is planned to launch in 2022 or sit for a long-form secure exam at a testing center when the current public health crisis has been stabilized. ACP is committed to supporting your professional development and lifelong learning and to representing your needs. We will continue to advocate for a constructive approach for internists to demonstrate their professional knowledge and skills. The College recognizes that many internists have been working nonstop throughout the past year in the midst of a global pandemic and may feel overwhelmed, stressed or depressed. The I.M. Emotional Support Hub provides resources and information to help protect your health and well-being and sustain your ability to care for those in need.

CHAPTER TREASURY REPORT
Finance Committee Report - ACP Oregon – September 2021: Greetings from the Finance Committee! Our committee is pleased to report that as of fiscal year end 20-21, the Chapter was continuing in strong financial position. Five of the last six years have shown a positive variance to our budget, and we currently have just shy of two years of operating reserves. Our total income was $84,993, against expenses of $48,707. Our Chapter dues income, which constitutes the majority of our total income, remains at budget in the prior fiscal year despite the uncertainty brought on by the pandemic. Our Committee meets approximately quarterly and provides recommendations to our Governor's Advisory Council. I'd like to extend my thanks to my fellow committee members: Michael Bower (Chapter Treasurer), Mark Backus, Jenny Silberger, Marianne Parshley, and Mary Olhausen. We are always interested in your questions, ideas, or interest in serving on our committee. Feel free to contact me at any time at rahkola.sarah@gmail.com.

The Membership/DEI committee of the chapter recently updated the DEI policy which was approved by the Advisory Committee and sent on to National.

INTRODUCTION:
Diversity and inclusion within an organization promotes new ways of thinking and a diversity of ideas, while fostering the ability to connect and build relationships. This encourages respect, empathy, and understanding between colleagues and patients and improves organizational engagement, innovation, productivity, and growth. The Oregon Chapter ACP membership comprises a diverse population of internists and subspecialists of internal medicine, and medical students. The Oregon Chapter ACP values diversity and views it as one of its greatest strengths. The Chapter welcomes prospective members without regard to race, color, religion, gender, sexual orientation, age, national origin, disability, genetic information, veteran status or any other protected status; geographic location; or professional setting. The Chapter works to ensure members from diverse groups participate in all activities, decision-making, and positions of leadership. The Chapter recognizes the history of racism in both the profession of medicine as well as in the state of Oregon and work towards eliminating racism within our profession and in the broader community.

POLICY:
The Oregon Chapter ACP strives to encourage internists and subspecialists of internal medicine, and medical students from diverse groups to join the ACP, participate in Chapter activities, and seek to attain positions of leadership. The Chapter believes that a commitment to diversity strengthens the organization’s capacity to respond to the needs of its members and their patients, i.e., to recognize that diversity is an important aspect of infrastructure that enhances relevance and effectiveness.

To achieve diversity, inclusion and equity, the Chapter will strive to:

- Ensure diversity in membership, and actively work to provide equity and inclusion of all Chapter members.
- Seek ways to expand diversity among annual award recipients by proactively soliciting nominations of distinguished persons from underrepresented groups within the Chapter membership and from professional organizations and community.
- Improve member understanding of strategies to acknowledge and respect diversity among patients and colleagues and to deliver patient-centered, culturally-responsive health care.
- Foster interest in health care careers in general, and internal medicine in particular amongst high school and college students.
- Support recruitment, coaching, mentorship, and sponsorship of Chapter members from diverse groups to attain decision-making and leadership positions within the College at all levels and to diversify the physician workforce in Oregon.
- Integrate awareness of equity issues into all aspects of Chapter proceedings.

About the American College of Physicians
The American College of Physicians is the largest medical specialty organization in the United States with members in more than 145 countries worldwide. ACP membership includes 163,000 internal medicine physicians (internists), related subspecialists, and medical students. Internal medicine physicians are specialists who apply scientific knowledge and clinical expertise to the diagnosis, treatment, and compassionate care of adults across the spectrum from health to complex illness. ACP PARTNERS WITH THE DEI SHIFT PODCAST ON CME-ACCREDITED SERIES – TO PROMOTE DIVERSITY, EQUITY, & INCLUSION

ACP is partnering with The DEI Shift, a podcast hosted by internists that focuses on diversity, equity and inclusion in medicine. ACP members can claim continuing medical education (CME) credits and maintenance of certification (MOC) points for each episode by logging into ACP’s Online Learning Center.

Promotion of diversity, equity and inclusion is a strategic priority for ACP, and partnering with The DEI Shift reflects ACP’s commitment to confronting and eliminating racism, racial disparities, discrimination, bias and inequities in health and health care. The DEI Shift discusses topics such as women in medicine, Asian Americans in medicine, inclusive health-care environments for LGBTQ patients and doctors, and underrepresented minorities in medicine. Listeners gain useful information to improve their practices and environments, to gain empathy, cultural competency, and humility, and to learn more about emerging DEI concepts. The DEI Shift podcast team includes diverse members across career stages from undergraduate students to advanced career physicians and represent a wide variety of backgrounds and experiences. The DEI Shift podcast (@TheDEIShift) is available on iTunes, Buzzsprout and other podcast platforms. ACP members who listen to the podcast can claim #CME.

Additional ACP Podcasts:

ACP members can earn free CME and MOC points by listening to any podcast episode from our library of programming, and episodes are also accessible through the Online Learning Center podcast collection:

Bedside Rounds: Host Adam Rodman, MD, FACP, focuses on historic stories of clinical medicine and how they relate to today’s society and culture.

Annals on Call: Host Robert Centor, MD, MACP, and guests debate and discuss recent articles from Annals of Internal Medicine.

Core IM: Host Shreya Trivedi, MD, and her team present clinically relevant internal medicine-specific topics for physicians. Core IM also offers a series of podcast episodes addressing interprofessional team care.

The DEI Shift: ACP’s newest podcasting partner, focuses on diversity, equity, and inclusion in medicine. Hosted by Tammy Lin, MD, MPH, FACP; Tiffany I. Leung, MD, MPH, FACP, FAMIA; and Pooja Jaeel, MD, The DEI Shift podcast team includes diverse members across career stages—from undergraduate students to advanced career physicians—and represents a wide variety of backgrounds and experiences.

SERV-OR | VACCINE VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

As more COVID-19 vaccine doses arrive, and as more individuals become eligible to receive the vaccine, there is a need for additional health care providers to help administer the vaccine. SERV-OR is Oregon's roster of licensed physicians, nurses, pharmacists, and other health care providers who are registered to volunteer in response to local, state, and federal emergencies. If you are interested in volunteering to help administer COVID-19 vaccines in Oregon, please register with SERV-OR today.

Temporary changes have been made to allow providers who have been licensed in the past 10 years to administer COVID-19 vaccines on a voluntary basis with SERV-OR without going through the volunteer training. For questions, contact serv.or@state.or.us.
