

Performance Measure Review

ACP supports this measure. The balance of evidence shows that implementation of risk-adjusted CABG mortality measures can improve outcomes for patients undergoing CABG surgery. Transparent reporting for risk-adjusted mortality rates may drive poor performers to retire and save more lives as a result. Furthermore, this measure addresses informed patient consent by advising patients of their risk for operative mortality.

Date Reviewed: November 7, 2015