ACP supports this measure. There is some evidence that readmission performance measures have reduced rates at the margins and improved population health. Additionally, this measure pushes population health and discourages facilities from solely targeting repeat readmissions to reduce their overall readmission rate.

Date Reviewed: November 7, 2015