Update in Internal Medicine

This live activity has been approved for 9.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit.
Dear Colleague,

Join me and your colleagues in internal medicine at the next scientific meeting of the Kentucky Chapter of the American College of Physicians, being held Wednesday, October 3, at the University of Louisville Event and Conference Center, Shelby Campus, Founders Union, in Louisville.

The meeting is a great way for you to recharge, rewind, and reflect with your peers, chapter leaders, and great speakers. Connect with the Kentucky Chapter’s rich source of knowledge content and networking by attending our premier meeting for general internists, subspecialty internists, hospitalists, allied health practitioners, residents, and medical students.

In addition to earning CME credits and MOC points, this conference is about making personal contacts and getting involved in your chapter. You’ll engage with people who know your challenges and can help you find solutions. The opportunities available at this meeting will help you meet not only your needs as a physician, but also the needs of the patients you serve.

To ensure your place at this invaluable meeting, register now by visiting us online at kychapter.acponline.org.

I would also like to invite you to a special reception immediately following the meeting to recognize and congratulate our new fellows. I look forward to seeing you in Louisville.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth C. Riley, MD, FACP
ACP Governor, Kentucky Chapter

Lori A. Caloia, MD, received her medical degree from Michigan State University, College of Human Medicine in 2004. Following a transitional internship at San Antonio Uniformed Services Health Education Consortium from 2004-2005, she served in the U.S. Air Force as a flight surgeon for 5 years. She completed her Family Medicine Residency at Virginia Commonwealth University/Fairfax Family Practice and a Leadership Certificate in Public Health at Eastern Virginia Medical School in 2013 and is board certified in family medicine. From 2013-2016, she was an Assistant Professor in Family Medicine at University of Louisville and served as Assistant Clerkship Director for Family Medicine and family medicine residency core faculty. She worked as a primary care provider at Norton Community Medical Associates from 2016-2017. She has served in her current position as Medical Director, Louisville Metro Department of Public Health and Wellness (LMPHW) since November, 2017, where she has been medical advisor for the hepatitis A outbreak that began in Jefferson County, KY.

Kristine M. Lohr, MD, MS, FACP, received her MD from The University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, and completed her Internal Medicine Residency at Ohio State University Hospitals followed by a three-year research fellowship in Rheumatology at Duke University Medical Center. She served on the faculty at The Medical College of Wisconsin and University of Tennessee Health Sciences in Memphis before joining the University of Kentucky College of Medicine in 2007. Currently she is Chief of the Division of Rheumatology, Professor of Medicine, Medical Director of Rheumatology, and Director of the Rheumatology Training Program at the University of Kentucky. In 2014 she started a six-year term on the American Board of Internal Medicine Rheumatology Board. Her research interests focus on medical education and medical decision making.

Ashley A. Montgomery-Yates, MD, received her medical degree from the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. She completed her residency in Internal Medicine and a Fellowship in Critical Care Medicine. She is board certified in Internal Medicine and Critical Care medicine. Dr Montgomery is the Director of the University of Kentucky ICU Clinic.

Anthony D. Weaver, MD, attended undergraduate and medical school at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, graduating in 1983. He entered private practice in Morehead in 1986. In 2008, he became Associate Professor of Internal Medicine at University of Kentucky, and developed the University of Kentucky College of Medicine Rural Physician Leadership Program in Morehead. He currently practices internal medicine, is Medical Director of the University of Kentucky Physician Assistant Program, and Medical Director of the New Hope free clinic. Dr Weaver hosts a weekly radio show covering healthcare research, Health Matters, on Morehead State Public Radio.
